Western Division Awards

Each year, the Western Division bestows awards on individuals and entities who have distinguished themselves through their contributions to fisheries education, science, management, and conservation. All of us know people who are deserving of recognition. Please consider nominating a worthy person or group for one of the WDAFS awards listed below. Nominations are due May 15, 2024 and WDAFS will select award winners and notify nominees of the outcome no later than June 10, 2024. Award winners will be announced in AFS' Fisheries magazine and online through AFS and WDAFS social media. Their accomplishments will be highlighted in the WDAFS newsletter (The Tributary), and they will be publicly recognized and awarded at the 2024 WDAFS annual meeting co-hosted by the Pacific Islands Chapter and AFS in Honolulu, HI September 16-19, 2024. Awardees are encouraged but not required to attend the annual meeting.

For more information, including nomination instructions and the names of past award recipients, please visit the WDAFS website: <https://wdafs.org/awards/>

The Western Division encourages recognition of individuals and groups representing all aspects of the fisheries profession. Nominators are encouraged to consider submitting nominations for individuals at all points in their career, from Early Career Professionals to Emeritus, as well as individuals from underrepresented and/or historically marginalized groups and be prepared to demonstrate the nominees support or commitment to the diversity represented within our profession throughout the Western US and Pacific Islands.
